Round One in Selection of New Superintendent: Choosing the Right Consultant To Help Board

How do you pick a school superintendent?

The first thing you do, Princeton's school board decided Tuesday night after less than an hour of discussion, is find a consultant.

The board made this decision by a 7-1 vote (Joan Doig absent), president Dietrich Meyerhofer recording, with a "no" vote, his uneasiness about the legality of the board's action.

The court, in closing down New Jersey's schools, set specific limits on what a board can and cannot do. Dr. Meyerhofer said he understood from board counsel Thomas Cook, who was not present, that action like voting to obtain a consultant, was probably not allowed.

After Superintendent Philip E. McPherson's dramatic resignation last week, the board invited Peter Rosamilia, field representative of the New Jersey School Boards Association, to come on Tuesday night and talk about how to choose another superintendent.

Mr. Rosamilia told the board that selection of a chief executive officer did not come under the court order and that it was perfectly all right to vote to seek out a consultant.

But board member Winthrop Pike suggested asking the state attorney general, if he rules that it's contrary to the court's order, the school board's action will simply be null and void. Nobody will go to jail.

Dr. McPherson's resignation is effective August 1. Before the court injunction, the board advertised within the Princeton School district for an Acting Superintendent. Deadline for application is July 19. For the time being, Ronald Novak is serving as deputy superintendent.

The selection question doubled back on itself during the relatively brief meeting. What criteria do you set up to choose the consultant who will help you set up the criteria for choosing a superintendent? How do you choose a consultant?

Mr. Rosamilia said the N.J.S.B.A. had lists, but could not, according to its policy, recommend any one consultant. He told the board a consultant will cost from $3,000 to $5,000.

Should the town be involved in choosing the next superintendent? The N.J.S.B.A., "How to Select a Superintendent" advises against involving the community, but Mr. Rosamilia said he personally thought it was a good idea, particularly for Princeton.

Repeatedly, during the board's questioning, he reminded members that the ultimate selection of a superintendent must be the board's. When Gail Firestone asked why not involve the community, Mr. Rosamilia replied that such action "opened a Pandora's box." He later shifted his metaphor and told the board that community involvement was frequently "a can of worms."

"It is imperative to involve THIS community as much as possible," declared member Robin Wallack, "but I'm not sure how to handle it."

Mr. Rosamilia suggested soliciting volunteers who would be asked to pick, from their own number, a core group to advise on criteria, the screening process, and so on. The board would then sit down with this core group of perhaps a dozen people.

"You would tell them what you want them to do, set time lines, but warn them that the ultimate decision is the board's," Mr. Rosamilia said.

Member Judith Getis disagreed. "We are the community's representatives," she told her colleagues, "if you ask for volunteers, you don't get a true representation of the community. If you pick one person and not another, you create problems."

The public must be asked for its thoughts on criteria and qualifications for a superintendent, member Hannah Fox said, but screening and selection must be the board's.

SCHOOLS HERE CLOSE

Based on Court Order. Princeton's four elementary schools and the middle school are shut tighter than a teacher's desk on Friday afternoon, about 30 people who normally would be working in the schools this summer are on vacation whether they like it or not — with no way of knowing whether they'll move from surf board to unemployment line when they get back — and even if the school board should pick a new superintendent, it can't act because such action is prohibited by the court's injunction.

Princeton's — and New Jersey's — schools are indeed closed.

The latest word is that Democrats in the State Assembly are within one vote of passing a $720-million income tax plan. If they can find one vote, and if the Senate agrees to the plan, schools would re-open.

They were closed July 1 by court order until the legislature finds a way to finance public education that doesn't rely on the property tax. That system, the courts say, gives an unconstitutional advantage to children in rich districts.

An appeal of the school-closing order has been filed with the U.S. Appeals Court in Philadelphia but the court is on vacation until September. The appeal was filed by the New Jersey School Boards Association and an official of the N.J.S.B.A. said this week he expects the case to be given a special hearing.

The court said schools could continue to pay interest and principal on bonds, contributions toward teachers' pensions, medical and retirement payments, all insurance premiums and benefits.

This means that people like Ronald Novak, the business

All About "Jerz" Sunday at 2

"Jerz." That's the state you live in, just in case it doesn't look quite familiar.

A musical about the State of New Jersey will tell you how the canning industry got started in Camden, what the winter temperature was at Jockey Hollow near Morristown during the Revolution (colder than Valley Forge) and where the Statue of Liberty really stands.

"Jerz" will be performed this Sunday afternoon at 2 in the Open Air Theatre. Rain date is Monday. Additional information may be obtained by calling 737-9721 after 4 p.m. There will be no admission charge.

Originally commissioned by the Hudson County Bicentennial Committee for its first "Congress" in Jersey City in 1974, "Jerz" has been performed throughout the state and is touted as "the longest-running theatrical production ever staged in the state of New Jersey." Authors are Sid Frank and Ron Brown, both of Springfield.

Songs? How about "Farewell to Princeton," Jersey Jingles Gently," "The Underground Railroad" and "Shivering Soldiers."

The Open Air Theatre presentation has the support of the New Jersey State Bicentennial Commission.

administrator; William Evans, the board secretary; Ralph Heyman, who's custodian of school monies, and business office staff, are on duty and working.

The annual audit is also underway. And since the court allows property maintenance, William Karch's staff is on full duty. Buses may be inspected and kept in good repair, but Ralph Bennett can't do any bus-route planning, under the injunction.

Princeton hasn't had any summer school students for many years, so this community doesn't face the problems of many towns. According to Mr. Evans, the chief problem here is that the court doesn't allow evaluation and placement work related to handicapped children. It's "educational planning" and not permitted. She is the wife of Bill Quackenbush, manager of Dillon Gym and Baker Rink at the University who was recently elected to the National Hockey League Hall of Fame.

OPENINGS AVAILABLE
For Group Picnics. The Mercer County Park Commission has announced that there are still some weekday openings at the Commission's Princeton Country Club and Valley Road, Hopewell Township, group picnic areas.

"This year, as in the past, the weekend dates at our picnic sites were taken almost immediately," said Richard J. Coffee, president of the Park Commission. "However, there are some weekdays available at both of our picnic areas." Applications for use of the picnic sites may be obtained from the offices of the Mercer County Park Commission, Mercer County Administration Building, 640 South Broad Street, Trenton, 08611.

In the high school are only two administrative officials and two secretaries, none of the usual summer complement of guidance counselors and secretarial staff. The court order permits processing of student records and transcripts, but that's all.

Teachers have received their last checks and their employment status won't change until September 1. If the legislature hasn't acted by then, they'll be entitled to unemployment.

Various staff members have different amounts of paid vacation time coming to them. The unfortunate ones with only a week or so, are those who will be first on the unemployment line if the legislature delays.

EXHIBIT TO OPEN
Sunday at Medical Center. The Auxiliary of the Medical Center at Princeton will exhibit acrylic and watercolor paintings by Mrs. Joan Quackenbush of Rocky Hill beginning with a public showing Sunday from 2-4 in the lobby of the Medical Center. Refreshments will be served.

Bicentennial Weekend a Thief's Dream as Loot Ranges from $225 Flute to $1,200 Wristwatch

Not caught up in the bicentennial spirit in the Princeton area last week were thieves who preferred stealing to buying.

Thefts ranged from a $225 flute taken from an unlocked showcase at Farrington's Music Center on Witherspoon Street and the usual citizen band radio thefts, to a $1200 wrist watch.

The wrist watch, a woman's gold model with diamonds around the face, was taken from the glove compartment of an unlocked car parked in the lot next to the Princeton Playhouse. The theft occurred June 12 but police report that the Lawrenceville owner did not report her loss until the 30th.

A CB radio valued at $109, a $59 8-track tape deck and 20 tapes valued at $140 were reported stolen from his car by a Moore Street resident during the night. Not all CB thefts, however, are from cars. A resident of Edwards Hall Friday night reported the theft of a $300 model.

Other thefts last week include a $150 calculator from an office at Communications Graphics, 145 Witherspoon; a $100 portable TV from the American Legion Post 218 on Lytle Street (entry through a ground floor window) and a $350 color TV and clock radio from a Witherspoon Street residence. A rear door had been forced, police said, to remove the TV from the living room and the clock radio from a second-floor bedroom.

A window was used to enter the house of a Spring Street resident between 8:40 and 10:10 Thursday evening. It yielded a $300 tape recorder and player and a turntable valued at $150. A vent window was smashed to remove a stereo AM-FM car radio from a car parked in the owner's Nassau Street driveway.

$1180 Gym Theft. A four-track stereo tape deck valued at $400, two microphones, 25 feet of cable and other items with a combined total of $1180 were stolen last week from a storage area in Dillon Gym.

Taken between 9:30 Thursday evening and Friday morning, the property was owned by a resident of Iowa, who, police said, was temporarily staying at Little Hall on the University campus.

There were three larcenies in 1937 Hall over the weekend from rooms occupied by members of a religious group identified by police as FCYF. Taken from the room of one woman was $20, between $150-$200 from a second room and $20 from a third.

Also during the weekend, someone broke into the office of the Masonic Temple on John Street and removed $160.

Lawn Furniture Stolen. Lawn furniture was as popular as citizen band radios last week in the Borough. Chief Michael Carnevale said that five such thefts were reported on Monday and another on Tuesday.

The first report came at 7:10 a.m. on Monday. The thief, identified as a man in his 20s, took a $1000 set of patio furniture from a home on Nassau Street. The next day, a Prospect Avenue resident listed the theft of two aluminum chairs, two blue chaise longues and two matching chairs. Total value: $76.

TOPICS Of The Town

SIX HOMES ENTERED

In Township. "We've had a spree of break-ins," commented Chief Frederick Porter this week as he listed six entries from the docket.

The home of Dr. Donald B. Craig, 537 Stockton, was entered between 5:15 and 9:30 p.m. Monday by an intruder who broke a window alongside a door to reach in and unlock it. Ptl. Anthony Gaylord investigated and police report that it appears as if nothing was taken.

A kitchen door was pried open between 6:30 and 11:15 Saturday evening to enter the home of Benedict Yedlin, 675 Herrontown Road. Stolen were $15 and credit cards.

A leather case containing a moonstone, ruby and assorted jewelry valued at $400 was stolen from a bedroom in the home of Elliot Sands, 375 Snowden Lane. Also taken was an undetermined amount of change.

Entry was gained through an unlocked rear bedroom window. Ptl. John Clausen investigated the entry which took place early last week.

From the home of G. Kenneth Chambers, 390 Gallup Road, thieves removed a $500 color television set and a Polaroid camera valued at $50. A window pane had been broken to reach in and unlock a door, said police, who added the interior had been thoroughly searched.

A pane of glass was broken out of a first floor door to enter the home of Lynn Maher, 101 Red Hill Road, but police report it has been undetermined if anything was taken. The house was not ransacked.

Ptl. Jerry Offredo answered an ADT alarm signal at Borough headquarters indicating something was amiss at the home of George F.C. deMenil, 124 Brookstone Drive.

Arriving, he discovered a laundry door open and a door to a storage room but a check of the house and grounds was negative.

LOITERER FINED $35

For Creating Disturbance. In Township court last week, acting Judge Robert Casey of West Windsor fined Raland Grover, 34 Red Oak Row, $35 for loitering and creating a disturbance while under the influence of alcohol. Mr. Grover pleaded not guilty to the offense which allegedly took place on Red Oak Row.

Allen P. Ostrander of Jamesburg was fined $70 for possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and was placed on a year's probation and fined $100 for assault. The complainant was Ptl. Anthony Gaylord.

In a counter charge, Ostrander had charged Ptl. Gaylord with assault. The officer was found not guilty.

The Glorious Weekend wasn't all that glorious, weather-wise, what with showers moving into the picture both Saturday and Sunday. If some holiday activity was adversely affected, however, Mother Nature welcomed the rain after two prolonged dry spells in June.

Temperature readings in the 60s were a pleasant relief from the heat and humidity, but the thermometer began to climb again at mid-week. Noting that, the man said showers were again possible in the later afternoon, on virtually a daily basis. He does, however, look for a generally fair weekend and has not-so-far-said a word about a return to 90-degree readings.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

On Route 206. Stanley Lavis, 53, of Trenton, sales manager for Nini-Chrysler-Plymouth, Route 206, received lacerations of the face last week after his 1976 sedan was struck by another car on 206 near Mansgrove.

Ptl. Lavis was driving north on 206 shortly after 4 p.m. when another car coming in the opposite direction, driven by Robert McCloskey, 49, of Mount Holly, skidded into his path. Mr. McCloskey was uninjured but was issued a summons for careless driving by Ptl. John Clausen.

Arthur J. Carroll, 23, Tyson Lane, was treated at Princeton Medical Center for head cuts which he received last week when his car, turning from Rollingmead onto Little Brook Road near midnight, failed to make the turn. It ran off the road and struck a tree. There were no charges by Ptl. Jerry Offredo.

In the Borough Thursday afternoon, a car and motorcycle collided at the intersection of Wiggins and Vandeventer.

The cyclist, Martin B. Schneiderman, 27, 180 Franklin Corner, Lawrenceville, was taken by patrol car to the Medical Center where he was treated for abrasions of the right side and leg, first degree burns of the left calf and multiple contusions and abrasions.

Ptl. David Alston ticketed the driver, Judith J. Doisson, 29, Princeton Arms, Cranbury, with a stop sign violation. According to police, Mrs. Doisson had stopped at the stop sign at the foot of Vandeventer but had failed to yield and was turning onto Wiggins when the collision occurred.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Shoplifting. Two persons were charged with shoplifting in the Township last week.

Jerry B. Cox, 24, of Highland Park, was arrested Friday by Ptl. William Potts inside Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center where he had allegedly shoplifted articles of women's clothing valued at $154. Police said that Cox had been observed by Leon Thompson of the store's security department.

Olga C. Ray, 20, of Trenton was arrested last week on S. Harrison Street, after she had allegedly stolen canned goods valued at $4.42 from the Acme store in the Princeton Shopping Center. Both she and Cox were later released, pending their appearance in Township Court.

House in Somerville Has Valid Claim That "Washington Slept Here" and Paid, Too

(This is the second of a series of four articles on Washington's major military encampments in New Jersey)

Many are the places where General George Washington reportedly stayed in the 13 states, but of all those famed stops, it may be that only the Wallace House in Somerville can prove this claim: Washington paid here.

The General's payments began soon after he moved into the Wallace House early in December, 1778, and continued until his departure on June 3, 1779. Wallace signed a receipt on June 4, 1779, acknowledging that he had received "one thousand dollars for the use of my house, furniture, etc., etc., which His Excellency, General Washington had for his Head Quarters."

If Washington remunerated other owners for the use of the many homes where he stayed in New Jersey, no record of the transactions exist.

Possibly, therefore, the Somerville residence stands alone as a place where Washington slept, all expenses paid.

Washington rode into the little village after apparently having rejected suggestions that he winter elsewhere, for General Nathanael Greene had written about Somerset County on December 2:

An Easy Winter. "I am sorry to find our prospect of Virginia, to its present location.

Burlington County Court House was the result of a bitter battle between Mt. Holly and Burlington for the honor of being selected county seat. After charges and countercharges, Mt. Holly won the honor.

The balanced and proportioned style, popular from the 1780's to the 1830's, features carved doorways, stairways and mantels. Other representative houses in the period are the Theophilus Phillips House in Lawrenceville, Bow Hill Mansion in Trenton and Mansgrove, where the Princeton Ballet Society performs.

Music is provided by the Cranbury Consort, which specializes in music of the early days of America. The forage is very indifferent; anyone late to lunch at the Wallace House, Washington permitted a five minute leeway, acknowledging that clocks might differ that much.

Actually, the winter was one of the easiest of the war — for the officers, at any rate. There is more record of high level partying than of privation in that winter of 1778-79.

Washington's quarters were the best in town. Wallace had nearly finished his fine two-story frame house the previous spring, but General and Mrs. Washington undertook additional interior decorating during the winter.

Famed feet crossed Washington's doorstep, summoned to military meetings or occasional parties. Guests included Lord and Lady Stirling, Generals Greene and Henry Knox and their wives, General Anthony Wayne and Light Horse Harry Lee, Colonel Alexander Hamilton, and the Marquis de Lafayette.

Ambassadors Visit. Unusual in June, the Wallaces returned twice that winter. In February, Monsieur Gerard, first French Ambassador to America, paid a call. Don Juan de Miralles, representative from Spain, was entertained in April.

Military men were luncheoners still stands, much as it guests almost daily, the better was when Washington slept for Washington to get their here — and paid his rent — and views and the more graciously when Mrs. Washington for him to share with them his shivered while zealous guards stock of good food, overly aired her bedroom in Embarrassment was the lot of the name of protection.

When the Washingtons left the village twice that winter. In family hands by 1801 and in February, 1897 the property was bought first French Ambassador to the Revolutionary War Memorial Society. The State of New Jersey acquired title in 1946.

Somerville's "Headquarters" still stands, much as it for Washington to get their here — and paid his rent — and views and the more graciously when Mrs. Washington for him to share with them his shivered while zealous guards stock of good food, overly aired her bedroom in Embarrassment was the lot of the name of protection.

All About Consumer Affairs

In previous columns, we have illustrated some questionable practices being used to sell magazine subscriptions. The approach begins with a telephone call from a non-existent "advertising" company that is doing "research" into what magazines you read. There soon follows an offer for subscriptions at pennies a week - but the price jumps to dollars a month when the salesman shows up with a contract. And there are blanks in the contract - it does not say how long the subscriptions will last.

How should you handle these solicitations? Here are some suggestions.

- First, if you are not interested, or if you want time to think it over, simply say so. A reputable company will not demand an immediate answer. If the caller persists, don't hesitate to hang up.

- Second, ask yourself whether you really want all the magazines being offered. (Usually you have to pick five from the company's list.) It is no bargain if you must buy magazines you do not want and will not read.

- Third, do you want subscriptions for as long as five years? The sales pitch may say 60 months, but it is amazing how many people do not stop to realize the 60 months is five years. In that period your interests may change; even the magazines may change.

- Fourth, do you want to deal with this company? Do you trust the company, or has something about its approach raised your suspicions? If you have doubts, it may be best not to spend $200.00 with these people. Remember, most publishers offer low introductory rates to new subscribers. These may help you decide whether you really want to subscribe.

(Do not be misled by promises of savings over newsstand prices: publishers' subscription rates are lower than newsstand prices too.)

Fifth, there are several things to look out for in the written contract. Remember, what counts is what is put in writing. The salesman should be willing to put in writing anything he has told you; if not, don't believe him. Any such writing should be on the printed contract before you sign it. Make sure all blanks are filled in or crossed out before you sign. (Look carefully to be sure the contract specifies how many issues of each magazine you will receive.)

Finally, the contract should state that you may cancel if you change your mind and notify the company within 3 days. You need not give any reason. (This "cooling off" period applies to all door-to-door sales, by the way.)

We hope these comments will help you make informed decisions about magazine subscriptions. If you have questions on this subject or any other consumer matter, give us a call at 989-6671.

Elaine Schuman, a Princeton resident, is director of Mercer County's Division of Consumer Affairs. The Consumer Affairs office is 640 South Broad Street, Trenton, N.J. 08607. The telephone is 989-8000, ext. 615.

FLOOD CONTROL AIDED

By $780,000 Grant. Governor Byrne has announced approval of a $780,000 Green Acres development grant to Mercer County which will help fund a flood control dam and a 300-acre recreational lake on Assumpink Creek in Central Park.

The 2,500-acre park is located near Mercer County Community College in the townships of West Windsor, Hamilton and Lawrence. Gov. Byrne said Green Acres funding will cover up to half the cost of excavation, utility relocation, and that portion of the dam attributed to recreation.

The Governor said he had been advised by Environmental Protection Commissioner David J. Bardin that in addition to recreation opportunities, the Lake Mercer dam will control downstream flooding along Assumpink Creek, particularly in Hamilton and Trenton. Mr. Bardin explained that Mercer County had advertised the project for bids and construction should get underway in the near future.

Eventually, sailing and fishing facilities along with a scull racing course will be provided at what will become the county's largest lake. Other recreational facilities are planned in the surrounding park.

Mr. Bardin noted the dam and lake construction is one of several Mercer County Park Commission applications currently being considered by the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) for the development of Central Park. A decision on the next phase will be made this summer, he said. Previous DEP grants included the acquisition of the park under the 1961 Green Acres bond issue and the development of the baseball fields, basketball courts and the ice skating rink under the Land and Water Conservation Fund.

Main access to the site is off Old Trenton Road near Mercer County Community College.

REVALUATION?

Council to Discuss. Borough officials, ruefully deciding they have to fish or cut bait, will try to decide whether to authorize a revaluation of Borough property when Borough Council meets this Thursday at 8 in Borough Hall.

It will be the regular July meeting of Council, changed from the usual second Tuesday date.

Council members and Administrator Robert F. Mooney have been talking over revaluation with each other and with tax assessor Stuart Robson for the past several months.

At Thursday's session, Council will hold public hearing on the ordinance changing the name of Avalon Place to Paul Robeson Place. Public hearing will also be held on the ordinance providing two loading zones for residents of Bank Street.

Transfer of the former bowling alley liquor license to REB, Inc., trading as Hudibras Tavern, will be acted upon, and Council will probably talk once again about bike paths on Bayard Lane.

Coward's 'Fallen Angels' Opens Ninth Season
For Summer Intime in Light-Hearted Fashion

All the hoopla of the festive Bicentennial weekend has faded into memory by now, but you can continue in the holiday spirit by going to see Summer Intime's first production of the regular season, "Fallen Angels." Noel Coward's light-hearted comedy will repeat at the Hamilton Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and on Sunday at 7:30.

Julia Sterroll (played by Kathleen McLane) and Jane Bambury (Patricia Gorman) are the "fallen angels." They are both happily, or at least comfortably, married women living in London in the mid-1930's.

But seven years ago each of them had an affair, consecutively rather than simultaneously, with a handsome, suave French singer, Maurice Duclos. Despite that, they have remained the best of friends, until that friendship is threatened by the news that Duclos is planning to visit them at an unspecified time this weekend. Fortunately for the ladies, their unknowing husbands have planned a golf trip to Chichester for the weekend, leaving them free to - that's just it -- to do what?

A COUPLE OF ANGELS, FALLEN: The style is Noel Coward, the production is Summer Intime and last weekend's audiences found it all great fun. You can join in this weekend at Murray Theatre. The fallen angels are Kathleen McLane and Patricia Gorman.

When the initial shock wears off, they begin to face seriously the question of what to do about the intended visit. They agree that the most sensible plan is to leave the city. And so they pack their bags. The first act, a very fast half hour, ends with them heading for the door just as the bell rings.

Act Two finds the "fallen angels" dressed in elegant evening gowns, downing martinis as a prelude to a sumptuous steak dinner. Their hope is that Duclos will walk in on them at any moment. But as time passes, and they drink more (champagne now), and eat more, and drink more, and talk more, and drink more, and start to argue more, their fondness for Duclos increases while their fondness for each other strains to the breaking point.

This second act, also quite short, provides a superb vehicle for displaying the talents of these two skilled actresses. They are alone on stage most of the time, but the action never dulls. Instead, anticipation continues to build. Will Duclos come or not?

The third and final act naturally provides the answer to that question. How nice it would be if, in fact, we did have to wait until that moment to learn what happens. But unfortunately there are such things as programs, which list the cast of characters and rob you of the opportunity to guess for yourself. And even if you are one of those strong-willed people who can resist reading the program until the play is over, the director, Brendan Burke, reveals the ending, perhaps unintentionally, in another way.

In an attempt to create from the outset the feeling that we are watching a black and white movie, rather than seeing a stage production, he uses a screen to present the credits, including pictures of each of the performers. Not only is the printing of the actors' names so small as to make them unnecessarily difficult to read, but now we know from the beginning that Duclos will indeed appear (at about the same time as the husbands return from their weekend, of course.) It is to the extreme credit of the two leading actresses that we tend to forget the credits as the story unfolds, and we, too, wait with baited breath.

As talented as the two leads are, it is Winnie Holzman as Saunders the maid who comes close to stealing the show more than once. This is her first day on the job in the Sterroll's flat, and does she ever have a lot to learn! Oh, she's skilled enough in serving the meals, and she responds promptly when the bell is rung, but she talks, and talks, and talks. In truth, she usually knows what she is talking about, and one can learn a lot from listening to her, but that is not the accepted role for a maid...

And when the owners are out of the room, or at least have their backs to her, some of her facial expressions and antics are hilarious. It's good to see Ms. Holzman in a part that enables her to reveal her true talents. This hasn't always been the case in the past.

Joseph Harbeson as Fred Sterroll and Richard Ferrugio as Willy Banbury are appropriately pompous male chauvinists. They handle their small parts well, as does Jamie Horlon as the long-awaited Duecos.

especially with Noel Coward himself singing on radio.

Burke's direction keeps the production moving along in a fast-paced, sprightly manner to match Coward's keen wit. He has cast the play well, and the bits of stage business that he has provided, especially for the maid, provide many delightful moments. He, and Kimberly Myers, general manager, and Geoffrey Rich, her assistant, can be duly proud of this fine beginning to Summer Intime's ninth season.

Coming up later will be "The Imaginary Invalid" by Moliere, "Two for the Seesaw" by William Gibson, and "Picnic" by William Inge. Call 452-8181 for reservations and additional information.

AND NOW, MOLIERE
At Intime. Rehearsals have already begun at Summer Intime for Moliere's "The Imaginary Invalid," although it won't open until next Thursday, July 15.

Ruth Steiner's costumes are flawless, carrying out in every detail the black and white color scheme of the set, and helping with the illusion that we are watching a movie. The "angels" evening gowns, their husbands' sports attire, Saunders' two uniforms, and Duecos' dapper pin-striped suit all recreate the 1930's. The recreation of another era is also aided by Robert Davidson's sound, Peter Mark Schifter, who did "Oh Dad, Poor Dad" last season, is directing the Moliere comedy. Mr. Schifter is a graduate of the Yale Drama School and has just finished a season working off-Broadway, at Williamstown and at Yale.

In "The Imaginary Invalid," he has the classic farce involving a miserly hypochondriac and the grasping family and doctors who surround him. Richard Ferrugio will portray the hypochondriac, surrounded by Anne-Louise Hoffman, Jamie Horton, Winnie Holtzman and Patricia Gorman.

After the show, the SI Cabaret performers — Robert Davidson and the Exciting Melltones — will perform, starting at 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Tickets are $2 or $1.50 if you have a ticket to the Intime play.

....WITH JAMES DEAN
Classic Films Continue. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are oldies nights on the University campus this summer as Summer Intime continues its classic film series. All movies are $1.50 and start at 7:30 p.m. in McCormick Art Museum (air-conditioned).

Dead End, with Humphrey Bogart, Joel McCrea and the Bowery Boys, is a drama from the '30s about youth in a big city. It will be shown Monday, July 12.

Born Yesterday, Garson Kanin's 1940's comedy about the dumb blonde (Judy Holliday) who turns the nation's capitol inside-out. It's scheduled for Tuesday, July 13.

Rebel Without a Cause is the James Dean. In this film, he's an angry young man of the 1950's. Natalie Wood and Sal Mineo are also in the cast. movie.

"FRACTURED FABLES"
Street Theatre's Show. If your organization wants to present Street Theatre's "Fractured Fairy Fables" between July 29 and August 13, you should confer with Debbie Bellow, 924-7452.

It's a children's show, with adaptations of old folktales and fairy tales. Dramatizations of "The Little Peasant" and "The Golden Goose," among others, will fill the stage with crowing roosters, smart peasants, simple farmers — the usual group.

Ms. Bellow is the director, and Francia White the executive director. Jill Kendall is assistant director and stage manager. Margie Wachtel is in charge of costumes and Jon Tenney is co-ordinator of props.

The cast of "Fractured Fairy Fables" is Jon Tenney, Marilyn Shanfield, Rochelle Jacobs, Myra Chanley, Julie H. Miller, Andrena Burgess, Lisa Mann, Stephie Kenen, Megan Sharaf and Mary Beth D'Amico.

Andrena Burgess and Julie Miller will play the guitars and Ali Henderson will provide music on the flute.

PRINCE

All The President's Men. Yes, it's very good. As a primer on the "how to" of investigative reporting, it is unsurpassed. How Washington Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein -- portrayed superbly by Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman -- brought the entire Nixon administration tumbling down emerges as a taut, suspenseful detective story.

The behind-the scenes chronicle is suspenseful and involving. Beginning with the haphazard discovery of five strangely-linked intruders in Democratic headquarters (Watergate), the film moves quickly to their arraignment and the assignment of lower echelon reporter Woodward to cover the story. What starts

IT'S NEW

To Us

OLD AND NEW QUILTS

At Assemblee Gallery. Tucked between two larger buildings and set back from the road at number four Spring Street is a small gallery with a large selection of American quilts, both old and new.

This is not surprising as owner, Dimitria Murphy, was responsible for Princeton's first quilt show six years ago. In fact, Assemblee Gallery grew out of that show.

The new quilts are from several sources, including a Princeton woman who came here from Lancaster, Pa. With the help of her husband who also quilts, Mrs. Murphy works many designs. Currently in the gallery is one called Optical Illusions which with three fabrics, two tans and a small yellow floral print, appears to contain boxes, stars or six-sided geometric figures depending upon the angle you view it from.

She has also made a charming crib quilt of green and white squares with a different gingham or calico animal in each one, $60.

Other new quilts come from Georgia, and these are country ones with a rustic appeal. The stitching is coarse and the designs are frequently mixed, but they are colorful with many different patches and reasonably priced, $50 to $75.

Then in upstate New York, Assemblee knows a quilter who works in Gloria Vanderbilt's style. Using the Log Cabin design, she mixes calicos, stripes, florals, plaids and hand-screened fabrics to create a colorful and unique quilt. This also is reasonably priced at $125, particularly as it involves more than 80 hours of work.

Variety of Styles. The old quilts represent a variety of styles, too. Particularly interesting this year is a crazy patch one with an historical touch. There are several patches with flags, one with a picture of James Polk and a black one mourning Garfield's assassination.

This one costs $85, and is indicative of Mrs. Murphy's belief in not inflating prices.

One of our favorites was a red and white Turkey Trot quilt from Burlington County. It was probably done by a church group and each section contains the worker's name. It is in excellent condition and the calligraphy is exquisite, $175.

One we had never seen before is a yo-yo quilt from the 1930's. This has many rosettes of colorful fabric scraps covering the entire pink background, and Mrs. Murphy told us that Barbra Streisand has effectively used a similar quilt as a tablecloth (under a piece of glass), $35.

Other old quilts are a cornucopia one; the dramatic Texas Star in red, white blue and pale yellow on a yellow calico background; and the magnificent snowflake design

$450.

Assemblee Gallery, however, does not restrict itself to quilts. There are also Americana, Art Nouveau and Art Deco pieces. The Americana includes an Amish bonnet; a crayon-pencil drawing of a horse-drawn trolley in Redding, Pa.; tin drums from around the turn of the century; and Peter Ompir's painting designs on antique wood and metal pieces, $10 to $150.

Some of the Art Nouveau pieces with their flowing graceful lines are sterling spoons in the tris pattern dated 1902; a German silver mirror with a floral design that wraps around the handle and across the back; a signed Limoges plate; and a pair of striking blue glass vases edged in gold and decorated with flowers, $20 to $36.

Like Art Nouveau, the Deco period has become one of the most popular movements going. With its emphasis on black and white and clean-cut lines, it couldn't be more different from the earlier movement, and yet both blend well together.

There is jewelry such as a short necklace of steel and black beads that Mrs. Murphy says is a "great piece of Deco;" a super soft black suede bag from Mark Cross with a black and sterling silver clasp across the top; and a gently tapered white Belleek vase with an abstract black design on the sides, $15 to $100.

Particularly fascinating is a five-piece tea service in the classic white cube design. These were once used by the Cunard Ship Line, and Mrs. Murphy acquired them when a ship was dismantled. This is a handsome example of Art Deco that remains as contemporary today as in the 1920's, $55 for the set.

Located at 4 Spring Street, Assemblee Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 until 4:30 or by appointment.

BICENTENNIAL ITEMS
From Around Town. This past weekend Americans celebrated the nation's 200th birthday in many different ways. The events ranged from quiet prayers to splashy fireworks, and regardless of whether you watched Operation Sail from a prime location or sang Happy Birthday at a traditional summer picnic, the day was momentous.

Now the question is, how do you remember it? Naturally, the manufacturers in our country have thoroughly explored this question, and in spite of the commercialism that does exist, there are many tasteful suggestions.

At The Cummins Shop on Nassau Street, we saw the Lenox Portrait Bowl, which is gold edged and features the softly-colored portraits of Adams, Washington, Jefferson and Franklin. Not only is it usable, but also is handsomely displayed on a table, $98.

Also here are black Courvoisier trays (those marvelous ones that are impervious to everything) decorated with a double eagle motif, and a set of commemorative porcelain plates priced at about $10 each.

Over on Palmer Square, the Princeton Gift Shop has Royal Copenhagen's Bicentennial plate which depicts the Declaration of Independence behind the signers, $35. Then on order and due in any day is a limited edition blue and gold Liberty Bell music box which owner David Glenn says is very lovely.

Next door there is the Princeton Book Mart where we heard that Thomas Fleming's "1776: Year of Illusions" is "one of the best things around." This book explores the realities of that year, including the fallible humanity of the men and women who ultimately won the revolution, $12.50.

Then there is John E. Pomfret's history of "Colonial New Jersey," $12.50, and the Princeton University Press' "Atlas of Early American History, The Revolutionary Era, 1760-1790." It costs $100, but contains 286 newly drawn maps, many in six colors. The cultural characteristics, military, history, politics, demography, manufacturing and commerce of this time are all explored to give a perspective on the beginnings of our nation.

There are also items for the children including coloring books, T-shirts, flags, tricorn hats and Freedom rifles, all of which can be found at Zinder's on Nassau Street. Our favorite toy, however, was a Yankee Doodle stick horse wearing a tricorn hat and trimmed in red, white and blue, $7.49.

And, if you know a girl who collects dolls, there is a choice of every size, beginning with tiny mice dressed as Betsy Ross, Ben Franklin or a Bicentennial boy and girl, $2.50 each.

The International series by Effanbee is new and the dolls are good sized, about 12 inches tall. There is Martha Washington in a blue dress, Paul Revere and a Freedom boy or girl in Bicentennial colors and colorful hats, about $15. The Carlson dolls are not as well made, but the costumes are excellent with a wide choice of figures, and of course the prices are somewhat less, $6 to $12.

The all-time favorite, however, is Madame Alexander's Betsy Ross and Zinder's just can't get enough of this one at the moment.

off as a routine assignment soon shifts into high gear as Woodward intensifies his snooping and opens a hornet's nest of suspicious circumstances and top political names.

Providing a fascinating backdrop to their probing is the newspaper itself (the huge newsroom is supposed to be an exact replica of the Washington Post newsroom) where the first efforts of Woodward and Bernstein to get full backing from their editors occasionally becomes as grueling as the actual factfinding.

Director Alan J. Pakula has overlayed the film with a measured but relentless tension that makes an essentially actionless story into a first-rate thriller, all the more true to life because Watergate left few Americans unscathed.

The film never yields to the easy temptation to make Nixon and his staff into targets of scorn; occasional actual news clips provide enough irony on their own.

Jason Robards stands out as the Post's chief editor Ben Bradlee, who stuck by his reporters' story when no other paper would touch it. Hal Holbrook is the shadowy informant "Deep Throat."

Murder by Death. This parody of the detective genre by Neil Simon features a bumper crop of celebrated sleuths invited to a Victorian country manor to solve a murder yet to be committed. They range from an inscrutable Oriental to a dapper Belgian.

The all-star cast includes Truman Capote, James Coco, Peter Falk, Alec Guinness, Elsa Lanchester, David Niven, Peter Sellers, Maggie Smith and Nancy Walker.

Youth Employment Service, Founded in 1961,

Led to Start of 48 Others Throughout State

The Youth Employment Service, which was begun 15 years ago under austere circumstances and with an original commitment to boring jobs indeed, but used to operate only six months, the jobs to ensure a good work record for better jobs and eager and willing young people with employers who initially had little or no use for certain jobs.

Organized by Geraldine Boone and Dorothy Schoch as their employers the positions of Community Services, the YES office opened in the House at 120 John Street. It still operates at that location required to run the office, today, with hours from 2:30 to 5 Mondays through Fridays, per year, a Scholarship Fund except during August, when it was established. The board is closed. The telephone is 924-5841.

The success of the Princeton YES program soon led to the establishment of 48 other youth employment agencies planning to go to a school throughout the state. Although different offices are tailored to it serves, the common purpose of YES has been to find jobs for young people, to train them in responsibility and negotiation for wages, and to be critical when necessary - of the employees whose work did not satisfy the requirements of the job, and of harsh employers who exploit young labor.

On the average about 1,000 job requests are handled each year, with an estimated total of 15,000 jobs being cleared through the organization since its inception. Some of the requests were for limited assignments; others led to permanent part-time positions for young employees lasting more than one year.

It has been an education for employers, employees, and the YES staff.

Money Saved. Some of the students reported back that they were privileged to find out that a certain field was not to their liking. One young man who worked in a bank for the summer and who had planned to become a banker found out would do the accompanying!

Not all jobs were fun or amusing; some presented real problems. One employer refused to pay the student for a good paint job and the argument was finally solved after lengthy negotiations with the help of a local painter as arbiter. Unhappy publicity resulted. Another family was disappointed with a young girl hired to spend the season at their summer home. The situation reached the point where the girl was fired and left to find her way back to Princeton. By far the vast majority of both employers and employees live up to their mutual responsibilities.

Skeptics Convinced. Employers in Princeton, though skeptical in the early 1960s, did give YES a chance. Over the years the number of job requests has tended to decline - a trend YES hopes to see reversed - but this has been due in some measure to YES's very success: many young people have found that they can approach employers directly now that the credibility of their age group as good workers has been established. Some part-time jobs have been turned into permanent ones.

"That is the success of YES," says Mrs. Jeanne Silvester, one of the original volunteers. "The youth of the community proved they were good workers, they did not take jobs away from adults, and they learned the ways of the employment world. They learned that though only 'students,' they had capabilities with a monetary value to someone, and they learned the satisfaction from doing a job well."

"Fifteen years later: many volunteers have come and gone on to other things remembering with fondness the joys of working at YES (and new volunteers to take their places are always needed and welcomed). Many students are now well into their own careers remembering lesson about the working world indelibly imprinted on their minds. And employers continue to hire through YES knowing that the students they employ will represent YES, remembering that their work is recorded and commented upon for their future."

Hazardous Bike Path.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

During my year here at the Institute for Advanced Study I have become aware of the large amount of traffic on N.J. Highway 206 which runs through the heart of Princeton. I am amazed to learn that the Borough is contemplating building a bicycle path along this thoroughfare.

As one who has traveled extensively by bicycle in both Europe and the U.S., I believe that such a project would be very dangerous for cyclists if carried through to completion. I urge strongly that the paths be constructed along less hazardous routes.

Although fats are composed of the same elements as carbohydrates — carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen — their composition is more complex. Carbohydrates are almost exclusively derived from plants, but fats are the primary storage material of animals, and we get them from animal products. Because fatty acids are synthesized slowly or not at all in the human body, it is often recommended that individuals get some of their fats from plant products which contain these essential substances. Whole wheat, soybeans, peanut oil, and olive oil are among good plant sources of fats.

SCRAPBOOK MADE
Of Poems from May 2 Party. Copies of the poems, thoughts and wishes that were launched with the balloon-borne air sculpture at the Art People party on May 2 have been collected in a scrapbook and presented to the Public Library.

Titled "Remember the Day," the scrapbook was compiled by Helikon, the after school writing program, and presented to Mrs. Dudley Carlson, children's librarian, by Mrs. Anne Reeves, chairman of the art people's party. It was her committee that dreamed up the idea of sending aloft a mobile of balloons onto which were tightly tied whatever children wanted to say. To date no word has come back from anyone in whose backyard the

HOT AIR IN THE ATTIC WASTES AMERICA'S ENERGY AND COSTS YOU MONEY

During the summer months temperatures in the attic can reach as high as 150 degrees. This blanket of heat can penetrate through the best ceiling insulation into the living area below and burden the air conditioning or make a building that is not air conditioned hot and uncomfortable. Ceiling insulation at best is a deterrent to heat, not a barrier.

SPORTS FANS!
I
YOU
KNOW
Brought to you
By John Bernard

A sportswriter in another city recently made an observation that's interesting to think about... He said that when the first baseball rules were written, an engineer named Alexander Cartwright arbitrarily set the distance between the bases at 90 feet... Think how different baseball might be if Cartwright had selected, say, 85 or 95 feet... If it were only 85 feet between home plate and first base, think how many more men would be safe at first on infield hits and how much more scoring there'd be... If it were 95 feet, think how many fewer hits and how much lower scoring the game would be.

Here's an amazing fact about catcher Johnny Bench... He was not only chosen for baseball's All-Star game in his rookie year, 1968, but he's also been chosen every year since - and no other player in history ever made the All-Star game his first 9 consecutive years in the majors, as Bench has.

Here's an oddity... Even though the Boston Red Sox have the smallest seating capacity of any park in the American League, they have led the league in attendance in 4 of the last 6 seasons!

I bet you didn't know... that excess major medical insurance is very popular today. A $250,000 limit with a $10,000 deductible for less than $100. Wow!!

Long-Time Princeton Baseball Fan Organizes Umpires Association to Serve in 4 Counties

One day last week, Anthony "Jake" Bartolino celebrated his 24th wedding anniversary by umpiring a baseball game with his son.

"It may sound selfish, but my wife knew I would enjoy it," said Jake, a resident of Lawrence Township. He described his wife as "very understanding. I don't know if many women would put up with it."

In fact, the same week Jake claimed to have umpired 15 games - a doubleheader every night and three on Saturday. "It's very tiring. Plus going around and observing new cadets. Lots of times I don't eat until 12:30 at night."

You made the right call if you get the feeling that not only is Jake closely associated with umpiring, but loves it as well. A 1950 graduate of Princeton High School and owner of his own television repair service here (Princeton Music Center TV), Jake has been umpiring baseball, basketball and football on a high school and college level since 1966.

Early last summer, after a falling out with the Mercer County Umpires Association, where he was vice-president and cadet supervisor, Jake started his own group, the New Jersey Baseball (NJC) Umpires Association of Trenton.

"I was brought up to be a straightforward guy. That's the way I'll always do things. 'To be denied,' commented Jake, 'to do something I love was like a slap in the face.'

Chartered in July. His NJC organization was chartered last July by the National Baseball Congress in Wichita, Kansas and is authorized to umpire ball games in Mercer, Middlesex, Burlington and Somerset counties. His initial state application denied, Jake is presently in the process of trying to win a charter from the NJC. Advisor is Bill Kunkel, an American League umpire and a close friend of Jake's.

Among the six cadets now undergoing 18 weeks of training - 14 of rules and 4 of game conditions learning how to make a field call - are Elmer Kovacs, who for many Meanwhile, his 20-member years ran the Hamilton group has all the umpiring it Township Little Lads can handle - limited only by its size. It is working the new Mercer County Collegiate Baseball League (hardball), the Hamilton Babe Ruth Association, the Princeton Babe Ruth and Little League and the Amwell Little League.

His NJC association has been chosen to umpire the Mid-Atlantic Babe Ruth Regional Tournament which will be held in Switlik Park in Yardville. It also donated its services for a benefit Legion Tournament in behalf of Trenton High baseball coach Lou LiMato whose son is suffering from leukemia.

Officers in his umpiring group of which he is president are Frank Rubino, vice-president; Scott Lindsay, treasurer, and Richard Pocino, secretary and assigner. Executive committee members are Al Offredo, John Bainbridge, Ed Harris, Pocino and Gene Petty, the latter a former professional umpire in the high minor league system.

Advisors are Bill Kunkel, an American League umpire and a close friend of Jake's. To the word "newest" one can also add "neatest" in describing Jake's umpiring group. "First impressions are important. I think it is essential to present a neat and well-groomed appearance," commented Jake, in reporting that his organization has eight different sets of uniforms. Their main uniforms consist of red blazers, blue shirt, blue pants and blue tie. "We're dressed just like American League umpires," said Jake.

LAPIDUS DOUBLE VICTOR
In Open Tennis Event. The Princeton Boys Open Tennis Tournament ended five days of play last week as four Princetonians reached the final matches. A record 400 participated.

Jay Lapidus, the number one seed in the 18-and-under age group for both the singles and doubles, won in both. In the singles semi-finals, the 17-year-old Princetonian defeated Mark Deckwitz of Stony Brook, N.Y. 6-3, 6-0, and then met Bill Clark, from Cherry Hill in the Friday morning finals. Lapidus defeated Clark, 6-1, 6-3.

In the 18 and under doubles finals, Lapidus and Peter Burrus defeated Dan Aronovic and Steve Ebersole, both from Princeton, 7-6, 6-2.

Flip Ruben of Princeton was seeded second in the 16 and under singles, and third with partner Shawn Kerns, in the doubles. Ruben reached the quarter-finals in the singles where he lost 6-3, 6-4 to Eric Riley of Malvern, Pa. In the 16 and under doubles, however, Ruben-Kerns captured the first place trophy with a 6-1, 6-4 win over Gary Van Arkel and Paul Wallach.

In the 14 and under division, Princetonian Scott Clark and his partner Scott Blessing advanced to the finals where they lost, 6-4, 6-4.

Lapidus was the winner two weeks ago in the Middle States qualifying tournament at Berwyn, Pa., with the result leading to participation at the national level. Losing only one set on his way to the finals, he topped Tom Liebenthun of Pittsburgh, 6-0, 6-4, for the championship. The two most recent victories elevated him to the no. 1 spot in junior rankings in the Middle States division of the USTA.

CAREERS TO CONTINUE

For PDS Athletes. Members of the athletically-talented Class of 1976 at Princeton Day School have been accepted at more than a dozen colleges

Women's Doubles Next
The next adult tournament in Princeton will be the women's doubles starting Saturday morning at 10. Entries for the event are due in the Tennis Office, 71 University Place, by noon on Thursday.

Entries for the men's doubles, which will follow, close next Thursday at noon. For additional information, call the Tennis Office at 924-4343.

where they plan to continue participation in a variety of sports.

Seven of them were three-sport athletes at PDS. Of this number, Mark Blaxill and Bill von Oehsen will become freshmen at Princeton, Bill Baggott will go to Hamilton, Steve Judge to Dennison, Tom Moore to Bowdoin, Jim Daubert to Williams and Frank Konstantynowicz to Harvard. The latter, whose football career at school was ended by an injury, also played soccer, basketball and baseball, and received the Gold P award in recognition of his scholastic, athletic and leadership qualities.

Among the athletes who won letters in two sports, Steve Baicker will go to Yale, Bill Martin to Rutgers, Chris Szuter to Harvard, Jeb Burns to St. Lawrence, Rick Olsson to Colorado, Bill Erdman to Middlebury and Jay Trubee to Dennison.

Len Williams, a football player, is heading for Penn. Others and their college choices are Joe Feltner (soccer), Lehigh; Mark Greco (cross country), St. Lawrence; Scott Ware (baseball), Wisconsin; Murray Wilmerding (hockey), Lehigh; and Pete Taggart (cross country), Colgate.

HANDBALL MATCH SET
In Jadwin Saturday. World team handball, a unique but exciting sport, will be the featured attraction at Jadwin Gymnasium Saturday when Rumania, the defending world and Olympic champion, meets the United States Olympic team in an exhibition match.

The contest will start at 8 and tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $2 for students. There will be no advance sale, with tickets on sale at 7 the evening of the match.

TOURNAMENT WON
In Springdale Golf. Three down and five to go, Dick Querns rallied to tie Harold Crane on 17th hole Saturday in the finals of the President's Cup tournament at Springdale Golf Club.

Crane then took the 18th with a bogey 5 to win the event for the second time in three years. The 1975 victor was Jack Petrone.

Although the President's Cup is a handicap tournament, the final round was played head-on, because both men had identical handicaps of 18. Crane forged into an early lead, shooting a 38 on the first nine, and after the two had tied the 13th, Querns appeared likely to run out of holes.

He birdied the 128-yard 15th, however, and when he played the dogsleg 16th and 17th in par 4s, the match was all square. Crane, who finished with an 86 for a net 68, got down in two putts to win after both men had reached the green in 3.

SINKLER TO MONTREAL

As Olympic Trainer. Bob Sinkler, who has been a trainer for Princeton athletic teams for nearly three decades, will go to Montreal later this month as a trainer for American athletes participating in the Olympic Games. He is one of ten chosen to serve in this capacity.

Now in Plattsburgh, N.Y., where many of the 500 men and women have reported for final physical exams prior to departing for Montreal, Sinkler did not know when he left here to what specific U.S. team he might be assigned. His experience at Princeton, however, has been long and varied. During the past year, he worked with the 150-lb. football team in the fall, the Tiger hockey team during the winter and the track team in the spring.

Sinkler began his career at Princeton as an assistant to the late Eddie Zanfrini. He joined the Department of Athletics shortly after both he and Ken Fairman, its director for some 35 years, returned from service in World War II.

The Princeton resident (his home is at 307 Witherspoon Street) can be seen on television marching into the Olympic stadium in Montreal with the United States delegation on opening day. That will be Saturday, July 17.

OBITUARIES

She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Skaar, with whom she resided, and three nieces and two nephews in Norway.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Lee Crandall, pastor of the Griggstown Reformed Church, officiating. Burial was in Griggstown Cemetery.

Loura M. Wargo, infant daughter of Dennis J. and Marilyn Z. Wargo of Woodsville Road, Hopewell, died July 1 in Hunterdon Medical Center.

One of the world's foremost experts in the field of three-dimensional topology, Dr. Papakyriakopoulos made significant contributions to the solution of Poincare's conjecture, a fundamental problem that mathematicians have been working on for 50 years.

In 1964 he received the first Veblen Prize in Geometry for his proof of Dehn's lemma, a problem in the study of the structure of space. His research provided the foundation for further study in the mathematical field of three-dimensional topology.

He was granted an Alfred P. Sloan Foundation research fellowship in 1959.

Dr. Papakyriakopoulos, a resident for the past two years. She and the late Judge received a doctorate in Flagg, Princeton University mathematics in 1944 from the Class of 1905, had resided in Bronxville, N.Y. since 1919.

Survivors also include a daughter, Mrs. Mary F. Bade of Greenwich, Conn.; another son, John J. Flagg of Tampa, Fla.; nine grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

PRESSURE APPLIED

By Princeton Post 76. As the Mercer County American Legion League enters its second half, Princeton Post 76 continues to pressure the defending champion and current Northern Division leader, Ewing Post 314. Although both teams own identical won-lost records, Ewing retains its hold on first place with one more tie than Princeton.

Post 76 split last week, defeating Lawrence Post 414, 12-1, and losing to the Southern leader, Trenton Post 93. Its record is 7-6-1.

A memorial service will be held in the fall at Princeton University. The funeral service was private under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Miss Margit Svensen, 90, of Washington Avenue, Griggstown, died June 24 in Princeton Medical Center after a short illness. Born in Norway, she lived in Griggstown for the past 13 years.

It appeared that one run would be all that was necessary as Post 76 hurler Darryl MacPherson continued to hold Trenton in check. Then in the fifth, with one out, MacPherson yielded a triple to Sam Riseldi, but appeared to have the situation under control when he got the next batter to hit a slow roller back to the mound.

But his throw went wide, allowing the runner to tie the game. Trenton, its foot in the door, went on to combine a walk, stolen base, single, and sacrifice fly for a 2-1 lead and its twelfth straight victory.

Against Lawrence Post 414, Princeton teed off at the expense of three Lawrence pitchers. It was a game that saw it connect for its first home runs of the year and have Rich Malacrea boost his record to 3-1 with a three-hit, eight-strike-out performance.

After taking a one-run lead in the first inning, Post 76 exploded for six more. Dave Duncan started things off with a grand slam and two batters with three hits apiece. Later, Bill Schroeder joined Engine Co. 3 ended its streak with a two-run blast to winless drought with its first center field. Princeton two victories as Scott Vanmorter identified by Proctor Samuel rounded out its scoring with Waterman and Randy Stenard McKelvey as one of two youths four runs in the fourth and one shared the pitching duties in the fifth as the hits were both games. Against Roma, replaced by Lawrence errors and walks. Duncan and Victor Filion supplied the punch in a 14-10 win. Against the prehended; the second the Eagles, Lamont Fletcher managed to escape.

In the annual North-South All-Star game, MacPherson got the starting assignment. Following a rocky start (he gave up a single and home run to the first two batters he faced) he settled down to turn in a respectable performance.

At the plate, Schroeder started the North's scoring as he homered for the first of three hits. Duncan also hit safely in his first trip to the plate, as Princeton batters contributed four hits in a 6-5 loss to the Southern Division team.

ELKS HAVE LEAD

In PYBA Little League, The Elks (7-1) have emerged as the leaders of the PYBA Little League.

They were able to capitalize on a loss by Post 76 (6-2) to move into sole control of first, while U.A. Local 380 (5-3) has advanced to third by winning both its games, and Engine Co. 3 broke into the win column with its first two wins.

The Elks began with a 14-1 win over PIASC, as pitcher Reed Horovitz struck out 17 and gave up two hits, while collecting three himself. David Abeles contributed four hits to help with the offense. Scott Gabrielson and Ken Varvel accounted for both PIASC hits.

Against the slumping Engine Co. 1, Paul Krassoff pitched a one-hitter and smashed a home run to lead the Elks to a 6-0 triumph. Horovitz added two hits for the winners while Peter Versfeld had the losers' only hit.

U.A. Local 380 continued its surge, defeating the Eagles and Post 76. Against the Eagles, Greg Lieberman homered — his second of the season — and Scott Roney had three hits to enable 380 to come from behind. David Riemann hit a three-run triple to pace the Eagles.

Local 380 then upset Post 76, 7-4, as pitcher Greg Lieberman helped his own cause with a three-run triple. He received support from Josh Miller, who had two hits. For Post 76, Clark, Lippincott and Terry Phox led the offense.

out 15 and had a triple at the plate. He received all the help he needed from Peter Nelson, Terry Phox, and Phil Corwin, who combined for nine hits. Judd Petrone homered and Larry McKellar tripled for the only hits by the losers.

YOUTH IS CHARGED
In Bike Thefts. Leroy Vanmorter, 19, of Trenton, was arrested Friday by Borough Detective Ronald Holliday with the aid of Trenton police.

He was charged with attempting to steal bicycles June 20 from the Princeton University campus and possession of burglary tools. Police said Vanmorter had a hacksaw and wrench in his possession at the time of his arrest.

Vanmorter was allegedly identified by Proctor Samuel Eterna, Ted Geherty and Randy Stenard McKelvey as one of two youths who were trespassing on the campus on the 20th. One, Eterna, was arrested Friday by Borough Detective Ronald Holliday with the aid of Trenton police.

In the annual North-South All-Star game, MacPherson got the starting assignment. Following a rocky start (he gave up a single and home run to the first two batters he faced) he settled down to turn in a respectable performance.

At the plate, Schroeder started the North's scoring as he homered for the first of three hits. Duncan also hit safely in his first trip to the plate, as Princeton batters contributed four hits in a 6-5 loss to the Southern Division team.

Post 76 maintained its second place position with a 9-3 victory over Engine Co. 1. Clark Lippincott picked up the win with a two-hitter, struck

GUINNESS AGENCY

JOAN KROESEN, Realtor

2 West Broad Street, Hopewell
Corner of West Broad and Greenwood
609-466-1224

In February 1964, a woman paid $510 for a triangular piece of land measuring 3 inches by 6½ inches by 5¾ inches at a tax lien auction in North Hollywood, California - equivalent to $365,182,470 per acre. Guinness Book of Records

Thank heaven, prices for land are more reasonable in this area, for instance....

We have 16 industrial acres on Rt. 130 in Robbinsville, across from the new S. Gold Industrial Park, for $15,000 per acre. Owner is anxious to sell this parcel.

And there are 26 residential acres in Yardley on Oxford Valley Road for $6500 per acre. This land is prime and quite close to a grammar school.

Or if you prefer country living, we have a modern rancher on seven plus acres, wooded, rocky and private, and a perfect bird sanctuary. This home has three bedrooms and 1½ baths plus four other rooms. $82,500

And another country home is located on Poor Farm Road, Hopewell Township. This one is a farmhouse with four bedrooms and 3 baths. There are two fireplaces, a beautiful living room and screened porch among other features. $82,500

For the Gentleman Farmer

Clearbrook Farm - wide sweeping lawns bordered by white fences with climbing roses and a long lane leading to this gracious old Colonial and spacious barn, with potential apartment, belie the fact that there are not numerous acres in this exceptional property rather than the more easily maintained four plus. Delightful reminders of earlier days include the wide floor boards, numerous fireplaces and iron hardware. Five (or six) bedrooms and five baths. $450,000.

Hunterdon County - a country lane leads to this fine old Colonial on 6 acres in Franklin Township, built in the 1700's. Wide floor boards and pegged beamed ceilings add charm to the ten rooms and attached apartment. Many extra features include three large barns, 3 car garage, stone spring house, greenhouse, pond and pool. $129,000

NOTICE

In compliance with a ruling of the State Supreme Court, all newspapers must ascertain that employment ads do not discriminate between sexes.

For example, titles such as "Salesman," "Nurse" and "Girl Friday" should be replaced, respectively, by "Salesperson," "Nurse (M/W)" and "General Office Work M/W."
